-son.  Thou o- pe-nest thine hand, thou o- pe-nest thine hand and fi-llest all things

Thou o- pe-nest, thou o- pe-nest thine hand, thine hand and fi-llest, fi-llest living with plenteousness, thou o- pe-nest thine hand, thou o- pe-nest thine all things li-ving with plenteousness, thou o- pe-nest thine all things li-ving with plenteousness, thou o- pe-nest thine hand, and fi-llest all things li-ving with plenteousness and fi-llest hand, and fi-llest all things li-ving with plenteousness and fi-llest

The eyes of all wait on all things living with pleasure.

The eyes of all wait on all things living with pleasure.

O Lord, and thou vest them their meat, thou vest them their meat in season. Thou openest thine hand, thou openest thine hand.
